

Home

The New Zealand Organisms Register (NZOR) is an integrated cache of basic data on organisms which are present in New Zealand or of interest to our conservation and bio-security agencies.

NZOR actively harvests taxonomic data from a federated array of data providers. These data are dynamically integrated into a national publicly accessible cache. NZOR web services provide end-users with access to these data.

Learn more about NZOR

Visit the NZOR Website

Learn more about how NZOR works

Read the Overview

Develop applications which use the NZOR web-services

Read the Service Documentation

Experiment with the API

Visit the end-point for the NZOR Data Service

 <http://data.nzor.org.nz>